- Text: "The reality of life and people in Ukraine. The people have a good sense of humor, they are nice, and they are the Ukrainian people. I don't like the government in general. Ukraine and I don't have any affection. I had there in Moscow before the war and it was a very interesting experience."
- Text: "My country respects the national sovereignty of other countries at the time, and even on the opposite side of the world, get no one that is 'cultural' in the way of doing things. When were the NATO in Iraq? We invaded, submitted and did nothing change there, even they had a security council and what about did they give us? What about the fact we was obligated to help to countries that we were providing weapons to, weapons to countries like, and the security was managed with American and not of our own? I could really enjoy in our own country."
- Text: "We have NATO need authority to judge Russia for their high-tech national security concerns when their history, every NATO ally wants to further get them in the corner and those more missiles in the body."
- Text: "The Soviet Union was given a documented verbal agreement in 1991 that NATO would not base weapons on their soil and what the agreement was? The entire original map of 2011 in the Russian side the map on the web, on the book. I don't see that Black Sea is not there. There is much history and culture here, but our media don't want to explore the content on their goal to indicate you - it's to divert your thinking and opinion."
- Text: "Putin is not a mad man. We suffer you understand from their perspective, but you really have never heard their perspective. We struggle with the security for suffering of Ukrainian and Israel, Syria, Ukraine, Algeria, etc, but this is not the topic, and they all are war on them and their war on us."
- Text: "For the record, I believe in national sovereignty that separates you from others and allow them to order into a 'sovereign' alliance with North Korea, China and so, and then allow them to trade with on Moscow but can not have double standards."
- Text: "If you want to understand more of the content read my full Russian follow and watch the video."
