Bravo!!!
Hopefully, following this information, more and more people in the EU will start to challenge the EU Narative and the current "leadership" in each of the European countries.

I'm thinking of a aspect, I may be wrong so please feel free to correct me with arguments :

Putin started a War because Russians natives, living in a artificially created country by the precursor of the Russian Federation, were being killed and threatened by non-russian inhabitants of the same Artificially created state.
In the same time, in the EU, "migrants" are being given a free ride towards a easy life free of worries from food shortage and energy prices at the expense of the elderly and the young that actually built that country (this can be seen in all European Countries like Holland, Germany, Romania).
The War in Ukraine is being sustained by the refusal of the Western controlled states to admit any claims coming from Russia as well as the extortion scam of rising energy costs...
